HOW SOCS ARE MADE: THE SEMICONDUCTOR FABRICATION PROCESS

System-on-chip (SoC) technology represents the pinnacle of semiconductor engineering, integrating multiple components of a computer system onto a single chip. This process allows for more compact, efficient, and powerful devices that drive modern electronics, from smartphones to IoT devices. Understanding how SoCs are made involves delving into the intricate and highly precise semiconductor fabrication

Design Phase, Fabrication Process, Assembly and Packaging Final Testing and Quality Control

The fabrication of SoCs is a marvel of modern engineering, combining advanced materials science, precision manufacturing, and intricate design. Each step, from initial design to final testing, requires meticulous attention to detail and state-of-the-art technology. The result is a tiny but powerful chip that forms the heart of many modern devices, driving the technological advancements we rely on every day. Understanding this process not only highlights the complexity behind these chips but also underscores the incredible innovation that makes our increasingly digital world possible.

EMPLOYEE VIEWS...

Pratibha Negi - Senior Verification Engineer

I became a part of InSemi Technology in Dec 2023. The organization has provided me with remarkable opportunities, especially in terms of working with top-tier clients. The projects are challenging yet rewarding, and the professional growth I have experienced here is unparalleled. The support from the management and the collaborative work environment makes it a fantastic place to develop and excel in the VLSI field. I also appreciate the continuous learning opportunities and the emphasis on skill development. The company fosters innovation and encourages employees to take initiative. The team here is talented and always willing to help, making it a great place to work.

ORGANIZATIONAL UPDATES

We are pleased to announce that Mr. N. C. Lingam, who has served with distinction as Vice President of DFT, will be stepping into the role of Chief Delivery Officer (CDO).

Mr. Lingam's unwavering commitment and exceptional performance over the past four years have uniquely positioned him to lead our organization to greater heights. As CDO, he will oversee all technical business units, ensuring seamless collaboration and driving impactful outcomes.

Together, we embark on a journey of growth and innovation under his capable guidance.
